First Prize. This was one of the four built by the students. In the afternoon the Student's Council conducted a sing-song which was enjoyed by all.

Highlight of the day came at 4 p.m. when four of the students solemnly took their places at the Judge's Bench and a trial was held for the teachers. Kangaroo Court was hilarious in the eyes of both students and teachers.

A bean bake was held later in the day which proved a successful under-taking.

In the evening a dance was held in the Auditorium with The Impala's providing good music. The King and Queen of the Carnival were chosen at the dance. Lita Marie Boudreau and George Schmeidchen reigned throughout the evening.

It is hoped that next year's Carnival will prove to be as great a success as this year.

Renovation of a Winnipeg house was in the hands of a Japanese architect and a United Nations crew. On their first morning at work the lady of the house asked the German carpenter if he'd like a cup of tea or coffee. He grew quite indignant and said he certainly did not want tea. He'd spent four years in a British POW camp and had had tea morning, noon and night.
