FASHION SHOW (continued from Page 1)

Commentator, Mrs. Isabel Marsh described Spring '67 as being a free-thinking period, with something to suit each and every personality. Silhouettes showed wide variety - supple, slim, swinging, with a fitted look or belted look, while there was a definite newness in these trend setting clothes.

Colour is the keynote this spring whether in wild prints or a sunburst of orange, yellow and lime and the new lipstick shades.

The music that accompanied the models was provided by Mrs. E. Hodgkiss, and Miss Joanne Brown was soloist for two numbers. Hairstyles were by Tony's Hairstyling, jewellery was supplied by Soughton Jewellers.

Adult models included Mesdames Donna Broadhurst, Connie Cvitkovich, Marilyn Chisholm, Ann Papousek and Miss Marion Desormeau. Rosemary and Susan Pattison, Rosemary Kolesar and Catherine Lang modelled the junior styles with poise and confidence as did Valerie Turner, Susan Graham and Kristine Olsen the "mod" and teenage styles. Peter Heenan and Paul Papousek displayed what the "young man about town" is wearing, with David Bajkiewicz and Stephen Gorham showing the junior boys' styles.

Following the show coffee and refreshments were served by the committee of Mesdames Olsen, Kennedy, Lohr, Chapman, Graham, Hall, Beddard, Ferrier, Kelty and Farrell.
