FORCES '67 will arrive in various Ontario communities early next month with a skirl of pipes, the sound of drums and flashing brass to herald their arrival. A team of travelling soldiers, Forces '67, is part of the Ontario Centennial Project of the Department of National Defence. Its aim is to show the modern soldier to as many Ontario towns as will allow.

Forces '67 is equally composed of militia and regular force soldiers. Ontario militia units are providing most of the music for the performances. In most locations a pipe and drum and a brass band will be entertaining with a varied program of military music.

The unarmed combat display is to be performed by regular force men of the 4th Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. These men are based at Canadian Forces Base Petawawa. During the performance they will present displays of precision drill unarmed combat and will fire their weapons in a ripple fire, all set to the background music of the travelling band.

Forces '67 performances will be staged out of doors during daylight hours in Terrace Bay July 16.

Monday, July 3 has been declared a national holiday in honour of Canada's 100th birthday, and the long weekend will fill Ontario's traffic lanes with travellers. A record number of American visitors, taking advantage of their July 4 holiday will further swell the flow of traffic.

It is up to individual drivers to reduce these hazards by exercising special care and courtesy.

Statistics show that most accidents are caused by inattentive driving. You will be safer if you stay alert and follow the rules of the road.

Following are suggestions for safe and happy motoring:

1. Travelling when over-tired is dangerous. Take frequent rest stops along the way.
