

Schreiber

HIGH SCHOOL WINTER CARNIVAL A SUCCESS

Iroquois House won the events prize in the Schreiber High School winter carnival recently, getting the last few points in a cracker-eating contest.

The carnival was a three day event with outdoor sports and contests on Thursday, games in the arena and a Variety Night in the school on Friday, various tournaments in the school on Saturday and it ended with a dance in the evening with Paavo Pellagrino and Roxanne Hill being crowned carnival king and queen.

An ice sculpture of an old steam locomotive was judged first prize. It was built by grade 12 students. Second was Boris the Spider, and third, the Snake.

An audience of over 300 attended the Variety Show with Doug Stefurak, president of the student's council, chairman.

Grade 13's skit, the plight of a variety of teachers attempting to interest and instruct a very dull student, drew roars of laughter from the audience, even though it was done in French which slipped occasionally as the actors themselves were overcome with amusement. A group of boys, dressed as ballerinas, also drew tears of laughter.

Another highlight was when students acted as a school staff meeting, with the principal's son impersonating his father.

School cheerleaders, who placed second in the recent district meet, presented some of their acts.

Three groups of folk singers were enjoyed. They were Nola Fummerton, and Bruce Gray; Janice Cluett and Cathy Stokes; and Lenore Campbell, Norma McLellan, and Ryan LeBlanc. Each played their own guitar accompaniment.

Stanley Spadoni on the drums and Tony Commisso on the accordion played popular numbers, and The Axemen orchestra with Frank Commisso as soloist contributed several numbers.

The school choir sang twice. Terry McParland gave two humorous monologues. Two other skits, one a cigarette commercial and the other a visit to the doctor by a meek husband and domineering wife also proved humorous.

Above photo shows Carnival King and Queen Paavo Pellagrino and Roxanne Hill. Below are the winning rinks in bonspiel.

-photos above by I. McCuaig

HEALTH NURSE GIVEN NEW POST IN SCHREIBER

Miss Heather Crowhurst, R.N., a native of Toronto and graduate of Port Arthur General Hospital, is the first public health nurse for many years to be posted in Schreiber.

Following her graduation she worked in Windsor and later received her diploma in Public Health Nursing from the University there. In 1967 she returned to Port Arthur and was soon posted to the Nipigon subdivision working there, Cameron Falls, Dorion, Hurkett, Rosspport and Schreiber.

Her duties include regular visits to schools and performing health inspections, vision and hearing tests and immunization.

She also does counselling with high school pupils and works with guidance departments.

Secretary: "And when I asked him if he wanted the carbon double-spaced, too, he really blew his top."

PETER DOIG RINK WINS FIRST EVENT

Bill Collinson, Tom Webb, and John Stitt were co-chairmen of the most successful Canadian Legion Branch 109, bonspiel, with 14 rinks entered, which took place over the weekend in Schreiber.

Peter Doig captured the first event prize. His rink consisted of Len Hiller, Doug Bennitz, and Bill Cocks. Herbert Geilert was runner-up, with Lorraine Huard, Gordon Willoughby and Frank McKenna.

Jack Handel, was second event winner, with Walter Zaporzan, Bill Collinson, and Geraldine McColeman. Nettie Thrower was runner-up with

D. Gunter, Myrt Zaporzan, Louise Karns. Don Tremblay, won the third event, with Edna Cocks, Betty Luke, and Lou Karns. Earline Johnson was runner-up with Myra Holmes, Cora Ribout, and Alice Potvin.

The biggest end was chalked up by Jack Handel, skipping for H. Gellert's rink with A. McColeman, John Ribout, and Jean Tremblay.

The 'largest aggregate', a novelty prize was awarded to Albert Pearson, Alice Potvin, George Fisher, and Chris Dunham. Tommy Bolan was referee-in-chief.