

IS YOUR JOB HELPING YOU TO LIVE?

Don't believe the old proverb that hard work never killed anyone. Few things are likely to kill you faster after you've reached forty. If you want to live long enough to enjoy the benefits of Medicare, listen to the insurance statisticians who have a vested interest in keeping you alive.

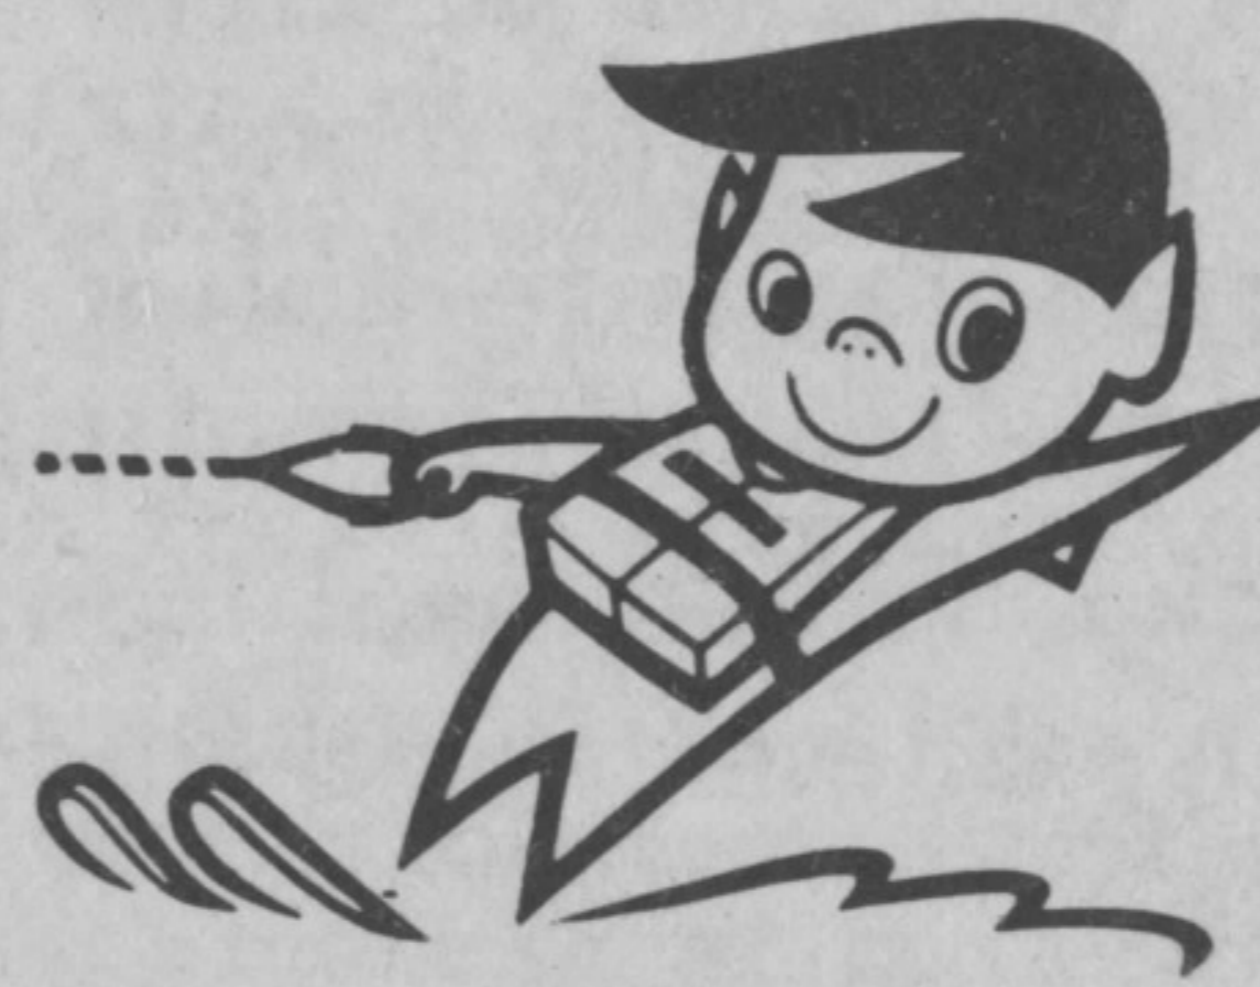

Not all of us can arrange to be born in a rich rural area in one of the English-speaking or Scandinavian countries, the second child - female - of a mother between 25 and 29, with grandparents and parents who live to be very old and who, when they die, leave respectable bank balances. Statistically, this background gives you the best prospects for a long life. (But you should turn down a throne if it is offered to you. European kings have the worst longevity record among the famous: Their average age at death is 49.14 years).

You will also better your longevity odds by getting married and staying married. The death rate for divorced men is more than twice that of married men. Widowers and bachelors also die off faster than married men - and wives live longer than spinsters. (CONT'D ON PAGE 8)
