WOMEN'S INSTITUTE RESUMES MEETINGS

The Women's Institute resumed its regular meeting on Tuesday, September 10th with Mrs. Harvey McCanna presiding. The roll call was answered by giving the name of the member's first school teacher and where they began school. Mrs. J. Morris said she stayed school in Killarney, Man., and her teacher was Miss Mary Forrester, later, by marriage becoming her aunt.

Mrs. C. Todesco began school in Webbwood, Ont., her teacher being Miss Barbara Smith, later becoming Mrs. Hanley, the mayor of the town and the first woman mayor in Canada.

Their motto for the meeting was 'Train a Child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it.' The correspondence included a letter from Mrs. M. Brownlee, suggesting that the present Home Economics and Health Convenors assume the role of Safety convenors also, and plan programs to promote interest in safety measures.

M.T. Chamberlain, Agricultural representative for this district, wrote enclosing an antidote chart for emergency doses in the home.

Church Discusses Welfare Problems

George Gordon presided for the regular meeting of the United Church official board with 18 attending. In response to a request from the town a lengthy discussion on administering the welfare fund was held.

The problem is that OPP which has disbursed the fund - set up by the town - no longer wants the responsibility and since the town office is closed evenings and Saturday and Sunday, other ways of assisting people must be found.

The town office, of course, could act during regular office hours. It was finally agreed to have Rev. Prinselaar contact Father Cano, and, if he was willing to take part, they would meet the town council for further discussion.

Mrs. Prinselaar described the need for more teachers in the Sunday school and proposed changes. In particular there was a need to separate the nursery school age from the older five and six year olds.

It was agreed to have Mr. Prinselaar and the pastoral committee meet representatives of the Rosspport Church to discuss services for this year.

The regular meeting night was changed to the First Thursday of each month at 7:30 in order that more members will be able to attend.

It was decided to have the annual visitation completed by the end of October.
