SCHOOL NEWSPAPER FOR ST. MARTIN'S

This reporter was surprised to learn last week that we are up against some stiff competition, with the birth of another newspaper in Terrace Bay.

Some of the pupils of Grade 8, St. Martin's Separate School, with a plan to raise money for a trip at the end of their school year, embarked on a new career of journalism.

Entirely on their own initiative, they secured paid advertising, printed stories, jokes, poetry, recipes, fashions, a lost and found department and even an editorial!

The first issues went on sale last week, and were named St. Martin's Northern Lites and Tips for Toddlers, including something for all grades from Kindergarten to Grade 8.

Editor In Chief is Beverly Legault, with staff members Celine Landry, Suzanne Theriault, Mary Jo Kennedy, Kerry Waghorn, Linda Melnyk, Leanne Calder and Patrick Heenan.

The Grade 8 pupils are also planning other projects to raise funds for their proposed trip, possibly to Winnipeg. The next project will be a raffle for a hand knit sweater, donated by Mrs. L. Legault.

The editor, staff and other pupils of St. Martin's are to be congratulated on their enthusiasm and drive, in these days when adults are prone to say that kids want everything handed to them without any effort on their part.

Best of luck to the Northern Lites and Tips For Toddlers.

When traversing large lakes in winter on snow-machines always have an experienced person in charge. Use the "buddy system" - two snow-machines or more.

Ice can be hazardous. Do not operate snowmachine on frozen lakes without checking ice thickness and having an intimate knowledge of water currents.

Remember, on some larger lakes, cracks can open without warning making ice conditions extremely dangerous.
