carry out re-assessments to bring their figures up to date. Many communities have not been re-assessed for 20 or more years.

In addition to the problems of inequality and differing standards, there was "a natural tendency of some councils to give a low priority to the assessment function".

It was impossible for Provincial grants to be fully fair when differences in assessment standards distorted the comparison between municipalities, Mr. McKeough said.

The new system of assessment will be administered by the Municipal Affairs Department in a two-tiered structure. There will be 32 regional assessment units with boundaries subject to adjustment in order to match those of regional governments. These regions in turn will be grouped under the assessment directors of seven large areas.

The present Assessment Branch of the Municipal Affairs Department will be expanded into a Division. It will give overall direction and will handle service functions, such as education and the improvement of valuation techniques. The Province will assume the administration of assessment in Northern Ontario on July 1, 1969, with the exception of the districts of Kenora, Rainy River and Sudbury and the cities of Sault Ste. Marie and Fort William. The remainder of the Province will come under Provincial jurisdiction for the assessment function on January 1, 1970.

EDITORS NOTE

Terrace Bay is included in the accompanying list of Municipalities who "are assessed at actual or at a reasonable approximation of actual values as of February 28, 1969".
