Could Be Straw That Breaks Back - cont'd from page 1 through the department of lands and forests, lays down the law. There will be a fishing licence for all residents of the province. No longer can people from the twin cities, Ignace, Nipigon, Geraldton, and scores of other Northwestern Ontario places fish free as they used to. Objections raised were brushed off.

Now to add insult to injury, the appointed custodians of the land we looked upon as our own have yet another admonition for us. If you catch smelt in a net, that's fishing and you must pay the $3. licence. Revolutions hve been started with less cause than this Who knows? Such a silly ruling by soft, highly-paid officials in plush offices at Toronto, could turn out to be the first solid incentive for a popular demand to make Northwestern Ontario a separate province. Residents of the four municipalities involved may amalgamate without any plebiscite. Yet they could suddenly become rebellious because of the order that they can't catch smelts without paying Toronto.
