To Whom It May Concern - cont'd from page 5

But where am I to go to complain? After all I took a heavy loss without no reason what so ever.

The only thing to do is leave it to my customers and the citizens of both towns to judge if I am to blame in that case.

To all ladies and girls I appeal if you brake your lipstick out of the metal container for some other use, throw it away after using. There might be a hole in your pocket and the lipstick might fall between the lining and make you believe that you lost it and you would make your cleaners life miserable just like the case above.

I am proud to say that in my six and a half years I am here I don't need both of my hands to count the complaints I have received.

The big cleaners are getting complaints every day some of them have special complaint offices, but I devote every hour of my time to keep away from these complaints as much as I can help it, and that is why I did not make any certification before but this time it looks like I have to.
