Twenty American couples are here for a winter holiday, bringing forty snow machines.

ROSSPORTHISTORICAL ITEMS SEEN AT OPEN HOUSE

A large crowd took in the Open House at the school Wednesday evening when parents and neighbours viewed student projects on pollution, art and craftwork, rock collections, polished stones (some mounted in jewellery) and stones being found in this area. The Indian artifacts on display were a popular attraction, among them being an Indian Tikinagon cradle board, a bean pot and a carved wooden laddle for lifting boiled food from a pot.

The history display of the collection of antiques many over 100 years old drew favorable comment. Among articles on display were silver tea services, butter dishes, copper teapots and kettles, wine funnels, wood carving, oil paintings on China, Jewellery box, religious articles, fans, china dishes, and a 1902 school register. Teachers that year were Miss Alice Barker and H.L. Cameron. In September and October, the school was closed due to Diphtheria epidemic which caused the death of several children.

An 1903 assessment roll ledger was another interesting item of local history which showed much of the village was still in the hands of the Hudson Bay Company. It showed property valued from $50 to $1200. Property owners listed were J. Healey, Chas McKay, A. Legault, T. Craigie, Peter Perron, W. Boon, Geo. Gerow, F. Dampier, E. Bruley, A. Sutherland, Isaac Hunter, The two churches, T. Williams, R. Weber, J. Ratwell, J. Paulmer, Geo Sills, K. McLeod. It looks as if a D. McCaig was the assessor but the signature is barely visible.

A film "The Group of Seven" was shown.

The teacher served coffee following a short skit entitled "The Hasty Pudding" put on by the students

ALTAR SOCIETY MEETS

Mrs. Herb Legault hosted members of the R.C. Altar Society Thursday evening at their regular meeting. President, Mrs. E. Gerow led the opening and closing exercises.

Correspondence included a letter from J. Stokes M.P.P. regarding information required by the organization. The Parish Council wrote inviting a member of the organization to attend the March meeting in Schreiber. Thank you cards were read and a discussion followed on the most suitable Tabernacle to be purchased from several listed in a Montreal illustration. Mrs. Agnes Legault presented the financial statement showing the funds are low and Mrs. Camilla Legault read the minutes.

Plans were finalized for the annual card party and social evening to take place Wednesday with a pot luck supper. Mrs. Todesco offered her home for the event and to purchase the prizes. A discussion on pollution proved interesting and demonstrated that many things that are discarded may be put to use such as crushed glass (bottles) in road topping etc.

Following adjournment the hostess served lunch to Mrs. P. Testori, Mrs. E. Gerow, Mrs. H. Yandon, Mrs. C. Todesco, Mrs. W. Schelling, Mrs. R. Bouchard, Mrs. H. Legault and Mrs. M. Hubelit.
