

UNITED CHURCH EXCEEDS OBJECTIVE

Members of the United Church of Canada have exceeded the objective of the Day's Pay Campaign initiated in 1968 by more than $100,000. And they have done it eight months sooner than expected.

The Executive of the General Council, top administrative body of the Church in annual meeting in Toronto this week heard the good news that the Day's Pay appeal launched by the General Council at Kingston in September, 1968, had resulted in $1,867,000 in 20 months. The objective was $1,750,000 in 28 months.

The funds are being spent entirely on overseas development and relief upon recommendation by a special committee formed for this purpose plus the United Church's Board of World Mission and Committee on Overseas Relief and Inter-Church Aid.

The General Council Executive also heard today that the Mission and Service Fund - national fund of the Church which underwrites all work at home and overseas - was showing a 2.52% increase for the first four months of this year and that over 600 applications for projects had been received from congregations. (These are projects in Canada and overseas and represent all phases of the Church's involvement).

The members of the Executive expressed their heartfelt thanks for this concerned response to the One Day's Pay appeal.
