YOUTH & THEIR PROBLEMS TOPIC OF SPEAKER

Don Beno spoke on behalf of Anthony Speziale, nominee for position on the Lake Superior Board of Education, at November meeting of Schreiber Catholic Parent Teacher Association. Bill Campbell presided.

Mr. Speziale is vice-principal of Holy Angels Separate School. Members were urged to vote in the election on Dec. 7.

It was decided to postpone the smorgasbord planned for December until sometime in January.

There was a discussion on filling the vice-president's position on the Schreiber-Terrace Bay Separate School Board left vacant by Yvon Beauparlant.

Mrs. Michael Kulmatycki, membership convener, reported the association now has 100 members.

A suggestion to publicize CPTA meetings was adopted.

Mr. Campbell outlined some of the programs for the coming months:

Mrs. F. A. Helmink of Terrace Bay, chairman of the local Association for the Mentally Retarded, will be a guest speaker; J. D. Stephens, Academic Administrator, will speak at the March meeting. There will be no meeting in December.

The minutes and the treasurer's report were adopted as read by Mrs. Michael Reid and Mrs. Jerry Godin.

Michael Kulmatycki, commander of the local detachment of Ontario Provincial Police, spoke on current teenage problems.

"Regardless of what the problem is" he said, the best course of action for parents is in prevention.

He added that emotional immaturity and personality defects supply the fertile ground in which will flourish alcoholism, and other psycho-social disorders, frequently with physical complications.

"All these problems come back to the sacred responsibility parents take upon themselves when they undertake to raise children. Responsibility for them does not end with providing food and shelter, education, social status, or financial security. Much deeper than these should be the effort of both parents to create the kind of home, and affection in which strong balanced individuals grow to mature adults.

"A home where the expression of love is shown easily every day in a multitude of ways, and where respect and consideration for each other is the way of life.

"With love parents must also have faith, and both dedication and intelligence to properly fill their role in the lives of their children," he concluded.

Following Mr. Kulmatycki's address, there was a lively question and answer time when many problems concerning teenagers were discussed.

Corp. Kulmatycki had brought several pamphlets which were distributed among the audience, who gave resounding applause in appreciation of the speech.

The Minister indicated today while there was widespread acceptance of the white paper proposals, administrative difficulties precluded immediate introduction of fuller legislation at this time which would be of assistance in meeting unemployment problems this winter. He added that the new legislation will be placed before the House soon after the Committee on Labour, Immigration and Manpower completes its review of the White Paper on Unemployment Insurance.

The immediate 10% increase in benefit rates, Mr. Mackasey said, will result in placing $54 million in the hands of unemployed workers thus further bolstering the economy through a significant rise in purchasing power.
