KIMBERLY-CLARK - Cont'd from page 1 ...

1971, includes installation of a screening and recycling system in the bark removal process, a boiler replacement project for the burning of bark, and installation of a large settling clarifier system for waste removal. The system is designed to remove 75% of the suspended solids presently discharged into the Kapuskasing River.

In its report to employees, the company says "in all of those pollution control programs, we are co-operating with the local municipalities and the appropriate government agencies to ensure that the environment will be improved in the most practical way possible".
