ST. ANDREW'S UNITED CHURCH

St. Andrew's United Church's annual delicatessen again proved to be the Food Fair of the year, with an astonishing number and variety of home made dishes, representing many nationalities.

There were at least 50 different meat dishes, entire tables of salads, bread, buns, cakes, and many a staunch dieter simply reached for two or three luscious desserts, announcing defiantly "To Heck! with dieting - I'm off for today!" One popular innovation this year was in having both large and small containers, suiting both small and large families. Tommy Whent was again the genial chef, assisted by a legion of United Church Women members.
