A.F. HAYCRAFT ANNOUNCES BOILER START-UP

Looking toward an improved position in the pulp and paper industry, A.F. Haycraft, president of Kimberly-Clark of Canada Limited, announced during a luncheon address to the Port Arthur Rotary Club of Thunder Bay, the startup this Fall of a new $8-million recovery boiler at the company's Terrace Bay mill.

Established in 1948, with a design capacity of 100,000 tons of Kraft pulp annually, the mill employs about 500 persons. Its present capacity is 147,000 tons.

The new boiler is designed to handle an additional 100,000 tons production annually. Of the $8-million cost, Mr. Haycraft explained that $1.2-million is for an evaporator and scrubber to control air pollution.

A recovery boiler serves as the "heart" of a Kraft pulp mill and its purpose is to take waste liquors from the pulping operation and recover both heat and chemicals for re-use.

"We have no intention of expanding the mill in the near future but want to provide for the possibility of an expansion with-in the life of this new boiler," he told his Rotary Club audience.

The Terrace Bay mill is supplied with pulpwood from the company's woodlands operations at Longlac. The company also has a tree nursery at Longlac to provide continuing crops of trees, and to date, more than 25-million trees have been planted on Kimberly Clark limits.

At the time the mill was built, a natural system for primary effluent treatment was put into use so
