

What Caught My Eye - cont'd

this time he'll do it under medical supervision

This might be a bit outdated to report, but it's kind of funny and probably worth the chuckle. In Atlantic City, N.J., they held an Easter bonnet contest last Easter weekend. The winner, they say, was a beauty. She wore a wide-brimmed blue hat trimmed with flowers. Truth of it was, though, that the winner (they found out later) turned out to be a man

Out of the New York State capital (Albany) comes the news that there are more abortions than births in the state last year. There were 278,600 abortions and 252,278 births. Truth of it is, though, that 60 per cent of the abortions were on out-of-state customers

They'll draft almost anyone in the U.S., it seems. Todd Phillips of Pittsburgh recently received orders from the U.S. Army Reserve to pack his gear and report to training camp. Trouble was, his mother wouldn't let him go ... after all, Todd is only 3½ years old...

In Camaret, France the other day, Alain Hilaire decided to go fishing for rainbow trout in a little stream and wound up with a two-foot shark. Camaret, it seems, is on a tributary of the Rhone River, which is only 60 miles from the Mediterranean, where sharks are plentiful World renowned painter Pablo Picasso who died last month, apparently left an estate of between $50 million to $100 million. It was left to his widow, Jacqueline Roque Picasso, and his only legitimate child, Paolo, who is 52. However, there are rumours that three of Picasso's illegitimate children are planning to sue for part of the estate.

In New Orleans, a 103-year-old woman underwent surgery for removal of part of her intestine last month and has come out of it as though she were a teenager. Sara C. Jackson is said to be the oldest person ever to survive major surgery. Doctors are usually reluctant to do surgery on elderly patients because of their inability to withstand its trauma and because of their slower healing rate. In Mrs. Jackson's case, it was necessary because of a critically damaged bowel and the peritonitis which had developed. Mrs.

Jackson didn't object to the operation, telling doctors to "do what they had to do and get her well again"

ANNOUNCEMENT

We wish to announce that the equipment necessary to add CHFD-TV Channel 4, Thunder Bay to our cable system is to be shipped from Toronto sometime this week and will be installed immediately.

We will distribute this station on channel 5 and if you do not receive this station, please check your fine tuning carefully.

We can make no promise that the reception will be satisfactory, due to the low signal strength in this area at this time, however, in a telephone conversation with the receptionist of CKPR-TV last Friday, we were able to confirm that the station will be increasing in power some time this summer, tentatively July or August. The station could not be more definite because of problems of supply they are having in acquiring the necessary electronic equipment.
