LETTER TO THE EDITOR

This summer a group of Lake Superior High School students will be working on an Experience 73 project. It is listed under the code name of P.E.O.P.L.E. This project is one of the Ontario Ministry of Education's summer projects. These projects are operated in conjunction with the Ministry of Education, Ontario Youth Secretariat, and local school boards.

The program is designed to provide students with an opportunity to explore part of Ontario's past. This will be done from a geographical, historical and archaeological point of view. Information will take the form of pictures, tapes, maps and booklets. Copies of these will be made available to the local schools for classroom use.

Our project will deal mainly with the Jackfish town, Empress mine area and with smaller studies on other less significant places such as the Indian pictograms and mounds.

The project will be co-ordinated by Greg Hill from Thunder Bay.

If anyone has old articles or information relevant to this era, that could be photographed and returned, please contact: Lonnie Connelly, Joe Maronese, Vinci Maronese, (Schreiber), or Mike Corrigan, Kevin Mercier (Terrace Bay).

Mike Corrigan.

SPORTS SLANTS

By Ray Shank

It may seem a little hot and muggy these days to be talking hockey, but it's so humid around here one has to write about winter sports - at least it reminds you that it sometimes gets a little cooler than 80 or 90 degrees.

Besides, the way the World Hockey Association and the National Hockey League are making the headlines these days, it's hard to keep them out of print.

And one more thing, in another 1½ months or two, hockey teams will already be at training camps.

The fact that Canadian Health Minister Marc Lalonde has stuck his nose into the NHL-WHA war is indication that the worst is yet to come in what should be a bitter confrontation.

Lalonde has declared that the pros would not be allowed to violate the present drafting age limit of 20. Lalonde didn't explain his move. He simply raised a flag. His comment came shortly after Gordie Howe's two sons, Mark and Marty, had signed a super contract with Houston Aeros of the WHA. Poppa Gordie, as you know, followed his two sons a couple of weeks later, severing his 27-year ties with Detroit Red Wings and signing a five-year contract worth better than $1 million with the Texas team.

Health Minister Lalonde raised the warning flag when he insinuated that pro teams wouldn't be allowed to tamper with players under 20 - a rule drafted up between the NHL and the CAHA some years ago.

But since when does the federal government have a say in what pro sports teams can do? Let's face it, the government might be able to raise or lower the drinking age, but it certainly has no right to tell a group of professionals what it can or can't do.

But then again, many feel the WHA won't be around long enough to hurt the NHL.
