TODAY'S CHILD

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

Friendly, spontaneous, talkative and witty are some of the qualities that make 13-year-old Jimmy a good companion. But he might recognize himself better if he were described as tall and slender with brown eyes, blonde hair, fair skin and a pleasant smile.

Jimmy is sports-minded. He likes swimming and plays soccer, baseball and hockey. He is a Scout and has many friends made through Scouts, school and Sunday School. He is fond of music.

An unsettled period in Jimmy's life held him back in school and left him feeling distrustful of adults. He is now learning to be more relaxed with adults and it is felt he will be an average student when he feels settled in a home where he belongs. He will be in Grade Seven next term.

Since Jimmy is accustomed to children of all ages, he could fit almost anywhere in a family. But he very much needs a lot of parental interest and affection, and therefore, it is hoped he will be adopted into a home with not many other children. The mother and father should be warm, understanding people who enjoy being involved in their children's activities.

To inquire about adopting Jimmy, please write to Today's Child, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. For general adoption information, please contact your local Children's Aid Society.
