which states that Council will determine what is published.

There is certainly no holding back of this type of information in the Thunder Bay papers or in any other North Shore papers in this area. Why is Terrace Bay always kept so secluded?

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

Freedom of the press is not a special privilege of newspapers but derives from the fundamental right of every person to have full and free access to the factors in all matters that directly or indirectly concern him, and from his equal right to express and publish his opinions thereon and to hear and read the opinions of others

In protection of these fundamental human rights it is essential that the press should be free to gather news without obstruction or interference and free to publish the news and to comment thereon.

TERRACE BAY GIRLS VISIT ENGLAND

Diane Jones and Isle Smith had an unexpected pleasure awaiting them during their stay in England. Diane and Isle travelled by air from Thunder Bay, via Toronto, to Manchester England, where they were met by Diane's Grandmother, Mrs. Harry Jones and some of the family, on July 14th.

They were escorted to Abbey-Hulton which was to be their home base. After renewing acquaintances with friends and relatives in Abbey-Hulton, they travelled by bus, accompanied by Pam Jone's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. Elms, to Bournemouth for a week. Here they visited with Pam's father, Mr. George Fairbairn.

After returning to Abby-Hulton, Diane and Isle were invited to a camping expedition, guests of the English Girl Guides; at Cannock Wood. The host group were also entertaining Girl Guides from Belgium and Luxembourg. The English Girl Guides had visited Belgium at Easter time and were returning the honour.

Diane and Isle enjoyed touring around with the Guides visiting such famous sites as Coventry Cathedral, Litchfield Cathedral and Chester Cathedral. They also enjoyed the companionship of the girls from this international group.

After the camping trip was over, Diane and Isle were taken to Wales by Olga and Frank Knight, for a week's holiday.

They returned to Abbey-Hulton, during which time, Pam Jone's father, Mr. Fairbairn passed away at Bournemouth. Diane and her cousin Pat attended the funeral there.

Isle and Diane returned to Canada on September 7th after an exciting trip overseas.
