

SAVINGS BONDS ON SALE OCTOBER 3RD

For many Canadians, the annual Canada Savings Bonds Campaign has become as traditional as Thanksgiving.

The first issue was introduced in the fall of 1946 and every fall since then, hundreds of thousands of Canadians have invested in their own and in their country's future by purchasing Canada Savings Bonds.

This will be the 28th consecutive year in which Canada Savings Bonds will be offered to employees through payroll savings plans where they work. Last year, Canadian employees set a record in dollar volume of Canada Savings Bonds purchased.

"This wide popularity bears out the suggestion that Canadians in all walks of life believe in a planned savings program ... and they have found that one safe and sure way to reach their financial goals is through the purchase of Canada Savings Bonds on the payroll savings plan", said Donald N. Fraser, a Toronto investment dealer and director of payroll savings for this year's CSB Campaign in Central East Ontario.

This year the demand for bonds by employees in many factories, offices and other establishments is expected to exceed last year's record.

Over the years a growing number of industries and business establishments have instituted this plan for their employees as an easy and convenient way for them to reach a savings target and invest in a safe, profitable security.

The employee simply places an order with his employer for the amount of Canada Savings Bonds he wishes to purchase. Each pay day a specific amount of money is deducted from his wages or salary to pay for the bonds. These payments are usually spread over a 12-month period.

"One of the attractive features of Canada Savings Bonds is that they can be cashed at any time by the holder at full face value plus interest earned," said David R. Dattels, a
