TELEVISION PRODUCTION WORKSHOP

A Television Production Workshop, under the guidance of the Ontario Educational Communications Authority, was held in the Public School, Terrace Bay, recently, with adults taking the course at night, and older students during the day.

The Workshop van is a large mobile unit operated by the OECA. It is equipped with a wide range of ETV equipment, including cameras switchers, special effects, 1/2 inch and one inch videotape recorders, and black and white and colour receivers.

The primary purpose of the van activities is to promote and develop the participants awareness and critical judgement of the television medium. It also provides them with experience in using TV equipment as a teaching and evaluative tool. It provides them with experience in the processes of TV production through the use of studio and control equipment.

Each group is oriented to the facilities available and briefed on the planning and presentation of a simple TV program. Members of the production team such as the director, cameraman, performers, etc., are selected by and from each group.

A black and white program approximately five minutes in length is then conceived, scripted, taped and evaluated by each group during the course of the workshop.
