CHIMO CLUB HOLDS 'AT HOME'

The Chimo Senior Citizens' Club's informal 'At Home' was well attended despite the bitter weather with the callers admiring the comfortable and handsome clubroom, the efficient and well-stocked kitchen.

Alice Sparkes, convener, was assisted in serving the small tea tables by Bern Jacomb, Winnie Campbell, Annie Niemi, Olive Cash, Irene Henderson, Dora Weaver and Eva Haughn.

Councillor Robert Krause and his wife presented a beautiful floral arrangement to mark the occasion - this later, taken to Birchwood Terrace in Terrace Bay.

Later, in the evening, the club members enjoyed their postponed Christmas party, convened by Ida Krause.

In the amusing games played the women defeated the men, prizes won by Kitty Whitton, Annie Niemi and Inez McCuaig, with consolations going to Joe Campbell, 'Muggs' McCuaig and Tommy Whent.

Luella Ginn, Ethel Smith and Inez McCuaig played for the old songs enjoyed and a surprise solo was played by Clem Downey.

Joe Campbell and Clem Downey, speaking informally, referred to their days On The Road, and how pleasant it was to have a special place where reminiscences could be exchanged, with Joe also paying tribute to Lester McCuaig and Clem who had done the ground work in getting the club established.

Ed Cavanaugh of Terrace Bay, said the Club was proof positive that friendship and co-operation can be established between communities with different backgrounds - Schreiber and old railway town, Rosspport with Lake Superior supporting both their fishing and recreation industry, and Terrace Bay, a mill town.

United in the club they are a group of friends enjoying each others' company, and sharing both offices and responsibilities with surprising ease and efficiency, albeit a delightful lapse from Parliamentary procedure on occasion.
