

FOUR GENERATIONS

Schreiber is a town proud of its heritage in the annals of railroading and cherishing its many traditions--easily maintained and observed in a place where there are twenty four generation families living peaceably with each other.

It is believed Schreiber was legally a town-ship before Port Arthur was incorporated as a city.

It's claim to being the centre with the most twins in North America, for its population, has never been challenged and some thought is being given to claiming a world record--for, we are still having twins.

But the quality, most mystifying to strangers, is its ability to laugh at, and with each other. It follows it is the natural habitat of the practical joke - which the victim enjoys as much as the perpetrators. Time and detail are not counted in these hoaxes which occasionally involves almost the entire community in its success, and which grows richer with the years.

And fancy the advantage to ready-witted youngsters (familiar with family anecdotes-who are armed with ready-made alibis for various small peccadilloes! Simply by saying "That's what grandma, or grandpa said - or did" - or, even, upon occasion, reminding parents of their escapades - as quoted by grandparents! And endless are the examples to be cited --
