TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

The pose is indicative of Freddy's personality for he's a quiet lad, inclined to daydream. Handsome Freddy is five, Anglo-Saxon in descent. He is slightly built and small-boned with beautiful dark eyes, brown hair and fair skin. He is in good health except for being subject to colds.

Freddy would rather play by himself than with other children but enjoys adult company. He likes water, stars, colors and machinery — especially cranes and bulldozers. Though often inattentive in kindergarten, he is observant about such things as the color of eyes, hair, clothes and traffic lights.

Freddy's teacher says he is apparently average in intelligence but doesn't seem interested in what is going on in school. He has tremendous curiosity outside school and he likes books, especially if somebody will read him a story. He enjoys drawing, painting and coloring.

Even outdoors, Freddy is quite happy with his own company.

This engaging boy will be a fine son for parents with much understanding who can love him without expecting instant love in return.

To inquire about adopting Freddy, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. For general adoption information, please contact your local Children's Aid Society.
