CBQ TO SERVE NORTHWESTERN ONTARIO

Thirteen communities in Northwestern Ontario who receive CBC radio service via a Low-Power-Relay-Transmitter system will experience a change in programming beginning, Monday, May 6th. On that date, nine hours of daily programming which now originates in Toronto will be fed from CBQ in Thunder Bay. The transmitters affected are at Red Rock, Terrace Bay, Manitowadge, Beardmore, Nakina, Schreiber, Hornepayne, Geraldton, Long Lac, Marathon, Armstrong and White River.

During January and early February, public meetings were held in each location to discuss local radio needs. As a result of these meetings CBQ has developed programming plans to serve the smaller communities in Northwestern Ontario.

Two morning shows, one from Thunder Bay and one for the region will be broadcast simultaneously from CBQ's studios at 213 Miles Street in Thunder Bay.

The regional morning show will replace Gordon Jones and "On Your Way", from 6:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m. and will be hosted by Terry Morris a life-time resident of Northwestern Ontario, who has spent the last seven years working in private radio in Thunder Bay, primarily in the area of sales. Terry is 38, married and has three children. He is familiar with Northwestern Ontario, having travelled the area during his years as a salesman.

It was apparent at the meetings, that listeners wanted to continue to hear the Wednesday morning Consumer Phone-In Program from Toronto, and the Friday morning Gardening Show. With the co-operation of the Northern Ontario Network this has been arranged. cont'd page 2 ...
