LEGION FIELD DAY

The tone for the Legion Field Day was set by the mock indignation of the crowd when the judges refused to let 'Vicky' Winters, run in the Women's Open race (even though she was wearing track suit) declaring too many of her great grandchildren had already won prize money!

Jack Handel was the parade marshall and this year an increased number of children were costumed. The judges were three strangers, attracted by the crowd, and so ideal for such decisions - Robert Payne, of Branch 533, London, Ont John Urban of Kingman, Arizona and Craig Muir, of Vancouver.

They awarded prizes as follows:
Pre-school age - J.J. Davis, in perfect baseball uniform; Jason Luke, at ten months riding his tricycle, with Donna Mayry, Dominic Pasqualino and Cathy Birch also in the money.

Other prize winners were Joanne Winters as a Tin Woodman, Rosalyn Zaporzan, Steven Lamoureux as an addressed envelope, Dirk Wilbenson as a Hula dancer, Catherine Potvin as a princess, and Anita Speziale, as a Lady-in-waiting;

A family group attracted much attention -

Chris Saarinen with his sisters Jennifer and Jodie-Chris as a Savage complete with tattooing, chicken bones matted in his hair, nose ring and other appurtenances, and the girls as lovely Hawaiians with bikinis, hats and parasols made of flowers.

Jim Crook, president of the Legion, managed the races assisted by Barry Harper, Paddy O'Brien, and Jack Handel.

Winners being: Andrea Stortini, Lee Ann Campbell, Jodie Saarinen, Lesley Moore, Michele Webb, Carrie Campbell, Robert Favuzzi, Reno Venziano, Brad Godin, Sandra Nesbitt, Cathy Campbell, Lori O'Connor, Stan Potvin, Michael Courneyer, Steven Spikula, Mary Stortini, Gail Beauparlant, Brenda Lamoureux, Ann Ferland, Ron Speziale, Brian Hiller, Mario Veneziano, Virginia Stortini, Joanne Winters, Leslie Comeau, Lawrence McParland, Billy Campbell.

The children in the parade were given their usual favors and treats and throughout the day vast quantities of cabbage rolls, hamburgers and other food were consumed.

During the evening the crowd thoroughly enjoyed dancing and singing to The Partie Sound, manager Wilf Roch, who also offered several special dance numbers.

Jack Winters won the big draw prize, the ticket drawn by Mrs. Mark Doig of Trenton.

Among those working for the occasion were Jim and Jean Crook, Jack and Bobbie Winters, Georgina Davis, Beth Macadam, Earline Johnson, Barry and Brenda Harper, Kay Fraser, Ruth Hiller, Chris Dunham, Avila Richardson, Len Hiller, Wilf and Barbara McLaughlin, Gail Welbourne and Charlotte Miller.

Amongst the presence of family, relatives and friends, celebrations for the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McGrath began on August 8th with a Mass at Holy Angels Church where their wedding vows were pronounced 25 years ago.

A family dinner was held at the Mayfair Hotel followed by an evening party at the McGrath home. From out of town for the occasion were Mike's brother Ambrose with his sons Kerry, Stephen and Joseph of Hamilton and Rita's sister Mrs. Ethel Devon of Eganville.
