

above them. It was hard climbing embankment then, but in the winter friends enjoyed tobogganing down right Lehto's door. This saved a 10 minute round the road in the bush.

October 1965 George retired and they moved to Schreiber.

Following the Lehto's departure Mr. and Mrs. Tiboni lived there until May 13th, then with the installation of central-traffic control in Schreiber no operation was required in Terrace Bay with the exception. So Joe as section foreman moved to Schreiber where he has resided since then. The families enjoyed their years in Terrace Bay in the house right on the side of the dock, and got quite used to the trains passing by just a few yards from their door. It was the silence that bothered them for weeks after they had settled in Schreiber.

RETIREMENT PARTY FOR ARNOLD ALMOS

Friends and relatives gathered at the hall on Friday, April 25th for a retirement party in honour of Arnold Almos.

Arnold and his wife were greeted with a round of applause and the singing of "For he's a Jolly Fellow" upon entering the hall. Arnold was presented with a corsage pinned on his lapel by his sister, Dora Weaver and Arnold was presented with a boutonniere pinned on by his son, Bart. Then Doris and Arnold circled the hall greeting their many friends.

Music was supplied by the Commisso Band of Schreiber. One gentleman from Thunder Bay thought the drums were being played automatically until he saw the little fellow behind the drums.

Many of the people attending were former Jackfish residents, where Arnold was raised then later operated the only store there.

Master of Ceremonies, John Falzetta was on hand all evening with little anecdotes to keep the people in laughter.

Towards the end of the evening, Doris and Arnold were presented with the money tree by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cook. Bill also presented them with a scroll that he and his family had made.

After an absence of 35 years, "The Jackfish Coal-Dockers", Arnold and Bart, played a few tricky tunes with Don Almos as their accompaniment. After lunch and refreshments, dancing was continued for the rest of the evening.

Out of town guests were: Mr. & Mrs. Bill Ellard, Mr. & Mrs. A. Doust, Mr. & Mrs. M. Shapiro, Mr. & Mrs. B.K. Almos, Mr. & Mrs. H. White, Diane Murtomaki, Marie Young, Mr. & Mrs. L. Spicer, all of Thunder Bay; Mr. and Mrs. R. Sinotte of Heron Bay and many friends from Schreiber.
