He also carried with him a 17' Boa Constrictor Skin to show the children. This was the source of a lot of stories and amazement and the kindergarten class of the Public School all sat in a row underneath the extended skin, until George told them that Boa Constrictors could eat people whole, then the skin was quickly packed away, much to the amusement of their guest.

George is a friend of Paul Theriault. They had met and studied together at Conestoga College in Kitchener. Alice and Alphonse Theriault had invited George to Terrace Bay for three days as he was passing through on his way out to B.C.
