QUETICO TRIP - MONDAY, AUGUST 11:

We made preparations for our long trip, did some shopping and waited for Randy to come back from Thunder Bay with our van. We used the Thunder Bay Parks and Recreation canoe trailer.

Tuesday, August 12: Got the trailer loaded and left Schreiber about 10:30. We arrived at Arrow Lake Provincial Park about 2:30. We started down the lake right away and paddled about 2 miles up the lake. We had really bad head winds and the waves were really enormous. It rained the first night and some of the kids got wet.

Wednesday, August 13: Got up about 9:00, ate and started on the lake again. It was just as bad as the day before. It took us until 5:00 to finish the other 7 miles of lake. We then paddled over Rose Lake and channel and we camped on Rat Lake Portage at 8:30

Thursday, August 14: We started off about 9:30 and did a portage into South Lake and paddled it, then did the Height of Land Portage into North Lake and paddled it. We then did the river and Little Gunflint and Big Gunflint, over Magnet Lake and we camped at the end of it. It rained that night and everyone stayed pretty dry.

Friday, August 15: Got a late start that morning because it was still raining when we woke up and it took a while to start a fire. We finally left camp at about 11:00 and started on a small river, we did three short portages and one long one. We camped at Maraboeuf Lake. There were many other groups camped here that we had met along the way.

Saturday, August 16: That night on Maraboeuf, the kids slept under the stars, and during the night one of them rolled into the fire. Luckily he just burned his sleeping bag and nothing else. We got another late start that morning but put a lot of miles between us and that campsite. We paddled up the river and came out on Northern Light Lake. Once we got to the Lake we were out and on our way home. We got a little side tracked on a few swamps, so we set up camp for the night.

Sunday, August 17: We finally figured out where we were and soon got back to where we were suppose to be. We started back up the Granite River and camped at the end of Gunflint Lake.

Monday, August 18: We broke camp about 9:30 and paddled to the end of Arrow Lake.

Tuesday, August 19: It was a lazy day on Tuesday. The kids walked to the store to buy some food. We swam and had baths and just layed in the sun.

Wednesday, August 20: The Van came at 11:00 and we were gone by 12:30 and home by about 5:30.

Thursday, August 31: We had a windup party for the kids and gave out novelty badges for each of them.
