HALLOWEEN

Halloween in Terrace Bay, as in every other place, is a time for children. This year the different ideas of costumes was exceptional. Ghosts, witches, skeletons, pretty ladies and jailbirds turned out in an extraordinary variety. It was truly a good experience to walk with the little ones along the streets. The tiny clowns and princesses with cats and lambs trailing behind them seem unaware of the big "Horrors" lurking above them. All they saw were lighted windows and grinning Jack O-Lanterns welcoming them in for their trick or treat from the kind person distributing them.

One real blood curdling moment for the one area was the sudden high pitched howling of a frightened hound dog. The poor thing had been half scared out of his wits by the sudden appearance of an apparition as it floated past his dog house. Of course, no boy could ever resist this wonderful scaring tactic, so, that innocent hound had competition for the next hour, much to the delight of dozens of trick or treaters passing that way.

The Terrace Bay Police Department turned out in constant surveillance over all the town and reported: That all was well and con't page 18.....
