Why does he
bring his savings
to us?

Well, they're all the same aren't they? A bank is a bank. But then maybe there's something to the idea that the older an outfit gets the better it gets. Like, every time I visit a Bank of Montreal — and they're everywhere — I can see that the tellers all went to the same school. They know what they're doing, they don't keep me waiting in line and when it's my turn, they're pleasant and efficient.
