"Lots of other countries have Unemployment Insurance. What's so good about our system?"

Canada has one of the most comprehensive UI programs in the western world.

It has a relatively short entrance period and pays benefits longer. And almost all Canadians share in the cost and benefits of the program.

By reducing the financial shock of people's movements from one job to another, unemployment insurance has helped to keep our workforce adaptable to today's rapidly changing social and economic conditions.

"Sure. But what about the cost to Canadians?"

Certainly, the dollar figures are high. This year's UI payout to Canadians will approach ten billion dollars.

But consider that figure in light of the ultimate benefits to the country.

The UI program gives temporary financial aid to hundreds of thousands of Canadians while they're between jobs.

"Isn't UI really just another kind of welfare?"

Far from it. Welfare money is paid only according to need.

Unemployment insurance money is paid according to eligibility.

It's like any other kind of insurance. If you worked in insurable employment, and a situation arises which entitles you to make a claim, that claim will be settled as quickly and courteously possible.

"Well, what do you do about cheaters and abuse?"

There are fewer cheaters and abusers than some would have you believe.
