ROSSPORT SOCIAL:

There is a steady trek to the countryside by the villagers to select and cut down their tree, before the snow becomes too deep. Some fine fir trees of all sizes are leaning against corners of houses to be taken indoors a few days before Christmas when all the family joins in the decorating. Some homes are already showing the spirit of Christmas with their decorated windows and entrances.

Everyone is looking forward to the Christmas tree and program arranged by the local Youth Club to take place on December 23rd. The senior and junior children are busy practicing their skits, carols and pantomines under the direction of Cathy Gerow and Devona Leisander. Santa Claus has been invited to make an appearance following the program to distribute gifts from the tree. A buffet lunch follows and dancing is planned to tape recorder music to wind up the evening's entertainment.

It is going to be like old times in Rosspport this New Year's Eve as the Rosspport Volunteer Fire fighters are planning a New Year's Eve Ball, the first to be held here for over 15 years. In days gone by, the villagers always held both a Christmas and New Year's dance each year. The re-newing of this old established social activity brings back many happy memories of days gone by. The hall will be decorated for the occasion and coloured lights will add to the colourful scene of formal gowns. The dancers will enjoy live music on guitars, piano and violin by Leona Leisander, Patsy Gerow, Dave Mushquash and Jeffy Bouchard. A buffet supper is planned to round out the evenings pleasure.
