played very well. They played five games in two days so they were pretty tired." As for the Sunday game against Terrace Bay Comisso said, "Terrace Bay had an excellent goal tender and they should be commended for that. Mark Tremblay, Joey Figliomeni and Michael Speziale all played a strong game for Schreiber. It was a good tournament."

The two day Tournament attracted six teams from Marathon, Red Rock, the Current River Rockets, Nipigon, Schreiber and Terrace Bay. The teams were divided into two divisions and Saturday morning play saw Nipigon place first in the 'A' division with a 2-0 record, the Astros second with 1-1, and Terrace Bay third with 0-2.

Terrace Bay Coach Mark Hara said that his team fielded 19 players and one alternate. Hara said he was very pleased with the team's performance and with their leading scorers Michael Duhaime, Jamie Speer and Dale Wilson. Duhaime played an especially strong game in the match off against Schreiber for the Consolation Championship. Hara shares the coaching of the Terrace Bay team with Jimmy Charlton.

Schreiber Recreation Director Kevin Duguay helped organize the tournament and he said, "It was a hell of a tournament. I think everyone there enjoyed themselves." Marathon mill faces possible shutdown Uncertainty about the future of the mill in Marathon continues to hold local attention. The sale of American Can's pulp mill and woodlands operations in Terrace Bay's sister community continues to remain in doubt.

It stated that if the sale is not consummated on a timely basis, it faces the possibility of the complete termination of these operations.

These steps are being taken with great reluctance as the Corporation is fully aware of the serious effects that they will have on its employees and the residents of Marathon. Every effort is being made by the Corporation to find an acceptable alternative. American Can had announced in April 1981 that it intended to divest its fiber based assets. The majority of its pulp and paper holdings in the US were sold to James River in 1982.

American Can announced last week that if a sale is not made the company will close down its operations. In a statement to its employees the company said, "American Can Canada's head office in Toronto announced that it is in the process of negotiating with James River Corporation for the possible sale of its Marathon pulp opera-

The steps required to phase out the operations of the Marathon Mill and Woodlands have already begun and a number of employees have been laid off or terminated. Appropriate notices for the balance of the 800 employees are now being sent. American Can Canada stated that it will be continuing the steps required to cease operations by July 31, 1983 in the event a sale is not completed.

On January 17, American Can indefinitely laid off 250 of its woodlands workers, about 60 paperworkers and 5 office employees.

Noranda announces details of Hemlo mines

Pyramids built of rough-cut wooden stakes tied together with bright orange ribbon continue to sprout up in the area. They can be seen on both sides of Terrace Bay and mark some of the 16,000 mining claims that have been staked between Terrace Bay and Wawa. The Northern Miner says that, "Anything bearing even a remote resemblance to the Hemlo geology in the vast area is now sur-posts." Noranda Mines has announced the details of the mining development it intends to build at Hemlo. The earlier announcement that the company would be going ahead with the construction of a mine led to speculation that as many as 5,000 to 10,000 jobs would be created at the site. The proposal released by the company shows its intentions to be far more modest. The new mine will pro-worth of gold a year at present market prices.

John Soganich, the Financial Post's mining analyst says that the mine is a major development and that Noranda "has a tight schedule. It wants the Golden Giant No. 1 in deposit by December 1984."

The company's proposal says, "Noranda Mines Limited proposes to develop a gold mine and mill complex to mine and treat gold bearing ore from
