Ice fishing is a popular pastime for the younger generation in the harbour. Some fine trout and coasters have been caught. One enthusiastic fisherman built a teepee style shelter over his fishing house and keeps comfortable while fishing.

That gentleman known as Old Man Winter has been very generous with us by giving us such a mild winter. Outside of a couple bad storms and below zero weather in January, the month of February has been very mild. Rain and sleet were prevalent but little snow. In fact folks had to do some heavy work in order to find enough of the white stuff to bank the house. Along came the rain and washed the snow down. In this north west part of Ontario it is a custom to bank or insulate a building with snow. In speaking with some old timers in the area, they stated that they couldn't remember such unusual weather around these parts at this time of year.

The ice has formed three times across to Vein Island and broken up by south balmy winds. It had been the custom to skate or drive a team of horses over the ice to the islands but the winter of 1983 hasn't been cold enough to guarantee heavy ice. It shows that no matter how much a person complains about the weather, there is little he can do about it. Old man winter has the last say about it and the month of March has just made itself known with more rain and sleet. We may be able to use the snowblower yet before real spring is with us. Maybe the worst is yet to come. Those scientific people the climatologists who make the study of weather conditions, would call this weather just a mild spell. There will be lots of up and down variations in our weather before the summer season comes around again.
