Mind that child

The Canada Safety Council's annual School Safety Week will be observed from the 17th to the 23rd of October. The 1983 theme is "MIND THAT CHILD" and the thrust will be on community involvement. Children are our greatest natural resource and their safety and well-being is our greatest responsibility.

The traffic mix is a very hazardous environment for children. Lack of courtesy or a split second of impatience on the part of a driver could have tragic consequences. So, when driving, always be particularly cautious in school zones. Come to a full stop when a school bus with flashing lights is encountered. Do not pass in either direction until the warning lights have been turned off and it is safe to do so. This is the law... and children expect you to obey it.

Parents, who have the greatest influence on the attitudes and behaviour of children, should become involved in school safety programmes. Especially they should explain to their children the need for school bus discipline and obedience to crossing patrols.

Because children spend so much time at school, the teachers and staff also have a large degree of influence on them. School safety need not be considered as an "extra" subject but should be integrated as a necessary lifestyle into every activity. The Canada Safety Council has a number of curriculum integrated school programmes on fire, school buses and playgrounds.

Children do not have the advantage of being able to draw on years of experience to help them in their decision making. So it's up to the adults to MIND THAT CHILD and to emphasize this responsibility during School Safety Week.
