

Ontario registry polio survivors

Local residents who have had polio and are now concerned about its long-range effects are urged to submit their names to the Ontario Post-Polio Registry. The registry, to be established by the Ontario March of Dimes, will identify people who may want further information on "post-polio syndrome" and will provide data on polio issues in general. "We are not going to ask for a lot of information," says Lyla Swanton, a member of the Ontario March of Dimes who had polio in her youth. "But no one now knows how many people in this province had polio and what problems may now be emerging as a result." Men and women who contracted polio in their youth may not, until recently, have had any problems since the acute stage of the disease. Now, as they grow older, they are experiencing fatigue, respiratory problems and muscle weakness. Once again they require specialized assessment and treatment. If you had polio, and are interested in being included in the registry, submit your name and the name of your family physician to the

Ontario Post-Polio Registry through the following Ontario March of Dimes contact:

Lyla A. Swanton, Ontario March of Dimes, 90 Thorncliffe Park Drive, Toronto, Ontario M4H 1M5, (416) 425-0501

An Editor's Beautitudes

Blessed are they who do not expect the editor to know everything — who tell him whenever an interesting event occurs — for they shall have a better newspaper for it.

Blessed are they who get their copy in early, for they shall occupy a warm spot in the editor's heart and will be sure of seeing to it that their items get into print correctly.

Blessed are the merchants who advertise regularly, for they have faith in their businesses, and their prosperity in their businesses, and their prosperity shall increase manifold.

Blessed is the woman who sends in a written account of a party or wedding, for she shall see the details and names of her guests in print as she sent them in.

Blessed are those readers who pay their subscriptions promptly when they expire, so that the publishers can pay their bills when they are due.

Blessed are they who do not think they could run a newspaper better than the editor does — yes, thrice blessed are they, because there are so few of them in the community!

Registration increased at Con College

Registration figures at Confederation College show that more students are attending classes this year than at any other time in the College's history.

Approximately 4400 full-time students will attend classes this year.

Twenty-three hundred and eighty-three (a 14 per cent increase over last year) are registered in 42 post-secondary programs in Applied Arts, Health Sciences, Business and Technology.

Approximately 1700 students, and 400 apprentices are expected to register through Canada Employment and Immigration Commission (C.E.I.C.) programs. Approximately 600 training plans will be developed for employers throughout Northwestern Ontario through the Canada Manpower Industrial Training Program.

In addition, close to 6000 people will take part-time evening classes.

Now well into its second decade as a College of Applied Arts and Technology, Confederation College continues to develop its educational programs and community service projects throughout Northwestern Ontario with the same zeal shown in its formative years.

To meet its obligations in this part of the province, the college maintains a full-time staff and offices in Geraldton, Kenora, Dryden and Fort Frances in addition to the main campus in Thunder Bay where, in total, approximately 19,000 people participate annually in one form or another of College programming.

In just 17 years the college has become a successful and thriving educational institution and an integral part of the whole of the Northwestern Ontario community.
