Minor Hockey "Sparks"

by LYNNE BADGER

The February meeting of the Terrace Bay Minor Hockey Association was held on Wednesday, February 8 at the Rec Centre. "The News" was represented, expecting to watch the sparks fly. The sparks turned out to be mere flickers but some interesting things were said, particularly about the issues everyone has been reading in the "NEWS" for the past two weeks. We shall attempt to bring you up to date.

Doug Roberts, Chairman of the Association, reported on the meeting of the North Shore Minor Hockey League where they protested being fined $50.00 for games they were unable to attend due to the weather, requested the re-scheduling of the missed games and questioned the legality of the decision to drop the 2 and 3 minute rules. Mr. Roberts felt that they were given the first two requests as a trade-off for the refusal of the third. He added that they only protested the legality of the dismissal of the rule rather than the value of the rule itself because "convincing some people of the value of the concept is like trying to convince his dog that he is a cat."

He was disappointed in the way the meeting was run as well. "One person made statements and everyone obeyed... acting like toy ducks that bob their heads in water." Mr. Hanley, who was present at both meetings in question, stated that he did not see the meeting that way and that the fine and re-scheduling of games had been decided at the first meeting.

When questioned as to why Mr. Hanley voted to drop the 2 and 3 minute rules when he knew that the majority of his Association was in favour of the rules, he replied that he does not represent the T.B.M.H.A. when he attends the North Shore M.H.L. meetings. He represents himself as a private citizen and votes according to his own conscience.

The issue of the use of the 2 and 3 minute rules was not discussed outright, since nothing can be accomplished until next season, however a number of people present managed to find ways to mention their stand on the subject. Jim Figliomeni was concerned that a couple of players in Schreiber quit playing hockey because their coach was not playing everyone. As a result of the "ballot" appearing in the paper, Nes Trach was questioned by parents regarding their "bench warmers". He reported that he "spoke indirectly to the coach" involved and the children in question "played so much (in the next game) that they asked to be taken off". He added that if there were a 2 or 3 minute rule the players would not have gotten to play that much.

Each of the divisions gave a report on the progress of their respective age group. It seemed as though things were running quite smoothly for all, other than a Bantam timetabling problem until it was Debbie LeClair's turn to speak. In reference to a recent Atoms game in Marathon she complained about violence and the lack of competent referees. Apparently her team withstood countless body-checks and wild slapshots until she felt she had to speak to the referees and Dick Nichols, president of the host Marathon Association. The situation did not improve so the Terrace Bay players retaliated and did their best to play the same dirty, rough game. Debbie regrets not having taken them off the ice as a solution to the problem. The Terrace Bay Association agreed to convey her concerns to Dick Nichols of Marathon to whom she had referred earlier as a "swine" in her emotional description of the events.

In response to Russ Phillips request for a refund of his son's registration fee, Doug Roberts explained that Mr. Phillips had expressed his concern about lost ice time and had been instructed to call Mr. Roberts after he had a chance to remedy the situation. Mr. Phillips did not call back and Mr. Roberts was unable to reach him to inform him of scheduling changes. After reading Mr. Phillips letter to the editor of the "NEWS", Mr. Roberts received a letter requesting the refund.

Jim Figliomeni put forward a motion that Mr. Phillips not receive the refund. During the discussion that followed, it was mentioned that at the time of complaint, only two hours of ice time had actually been lost. Gail Roberts felt that since the ice time is being made up, the reason for requesting a refund is no longer valid. Faye Figliomeni added that many associations do not have Mite programs at all and that parents should appreciate the fact that the T.B.M.H.A. is concerned enough to run one. The motion to refuse the refund was carried.

Art Exhibition to travel

In celebration of Ontario's Bicentennial, the NEC/CIA has received approval for a grant of $39,000 to produce and travel a very special Art Exhibition ... "The Northwestern Ontario Indian Juried Art Show".

This exhibition invites submissions of up to three works by eligible native artists in, or from, Northwestern Ontario. Artists can be photographers, painters, printmakers or sculptors, and the deadline for all submissions is May 1, 1984.

The purpose behind this first juried show for Northwestern Ontario Indian artists, is to draw out little known artists who deserve more professional exposure, in addition to better known artists already established. In keeping with the "all native" theme, the jury will consist of Indian art professionals: Norm Opperman, owner/manager of Nishnawbe Arts in Toronto; Gerald McMaster, Curator of Contemporary Indian Art at the National Museum of Man; and Leo Yerxa, a Fort Frances area artist of international success.

The centre gratefully acknowledges the Ontario Bicentennial Advisory Commission for this grant and in keeping with the objectives, the best works from the shows will be purchased and awards given out.

The show is scheduled to open in Thunder Bay on June 20th and will run until August 4th, with plans for it to travel to other centres in Ontario afterwards.

IN MEMORIAM

SWEET - In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Betty Sweet, who passed away Feb. 15, 1983.

God saw you getting tired
When a cure was not to be
So he closed His arms around you
And whispered, "Come to Me"
You didn't deserve what you went through
And so He gave you rest
God's garden must be beautiful
He only takes the best.

Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by daughter Barbara, son-in-law Bob, grandchildren Wendy and Ian.
