French Language Education Sought

The Terrace Bay Schreiber News was asked to print the following letter to the French-speaking residents of Terrace Bay. It is my feeling that this would set a precedent for printing articles in other minority languages and the "News" intends to remain an English language newspaper.

I have translated the article to the best of my limited ability and wish the authors success with their project. I think that they may even find support in the English-speaking community for their endeavours because there are many who would like their English speaking children to have the benefit of a second language.

For those who prefer, the article is available in French at the "News" office.

Lynne C. Badger, Editor

After having worked on a project concerning French language classes for our children, I would like to share my personal opinion with you in case you have forgotten the advantages of our French language. Like most French-speaking residents I received my education in French from the first grade to the twelfth grade. The English language was introduced to me in the third grade, but I already had a good understanding of the language because I knew many little English friends.

Here in our small town of Terrace Bay, there are many French families but there is a lack of communication and participation. We are trying to obtain French classes for our children so they will have the advantage of writing and reading in addition to speaking and understanding the language. I am convinced that in order to preserve our language and culture, our children must be educated in a totally French environment until they have attained grade 4 at which time they may take subjects in the English language if they wish.

If the parents of today do not accept this as a way to preserve their mother language, I can predict the disappearance of the language in one generation. Give us a hand and work together to this goal. For further information contact:
