PCB Destruction

disposal facilities in the province, although some six million litres of PCB liquids are still in use, largely as insulating fluid in closed-system electrical transformers and capacitors and another million and a half litres are in storage awaiting destruction. PCBs can be destroyed by high temperatures incineration under controlled conditions. Disposal options include either a stationary incinerator with PCBs being transported to that location, or mobile incineration units licensed to move around the province and destroy the PCBs in the municipalities where they are presently stored or used. A regulatory scheme is in place to deal with stationary incinerators. However, the Ministry of the Environment believes that a new regulatory and administrative program is required to effectively control the licensing and operation of mobile facilities.

Fitness Freaks

3rd the "Fitness Freaks" gathered for their third meeting. We discussed proper exercises and good eating habits.

We divided into groups and headed for the kitchen. Joanne Lalonde and Jennifer McLeod made the fruit custard. Tanya Ditchfield, Nancy Costa and Lisa Merkly made chili con carne. Sandy McBride, Carmella Auger and Denise Gordon made French Fried Potatoes.

We did exercises and our book work while the food was cooking. We ate the food and everything was superb. We all chipped in and helped do dishes.

Finally we all went home. It was a very fun night.
