It's a weekly newspaper, right? It's not TV or longdistance telephone, right? We don't even know who's running it right? Well, I don't care - I have some Happy New Year's wishes to extend and must use the only medium available at the moment.

First of course, best wishes to all the communities around us. Then, very special good wishes to the people at Rossport who went out and met Steve Fonyo on his heroic journey; to the people in our stores and shops who were unfailingly friendly and polite during the Christmas season; to Big Business that took time to acknowledge the basic humanity of the many little people who make Big Business.

Best wishes for health and happiness to those dedicated fellows, the Greyhound bus drivers - they face bad weather, temperamental passengers, crying babies, plus - this year they had the added burden of freight - parcels that could have been sent by mail. Our confidence in our postal service has been so shaken that many of us felt we could trust the bus ahead of the post. I just hope the boys in the front office are as aware of the drivers' efficiency as we are, and will extend tangible appreciation in 1985.

Not only best wishes for health and happiness, but most sincere thanks are extended to the entire crew of Air Canada's Flight #161 on Dec. 7/84 between Ottawa and Thunder Bay.

They were gentle with a little old lady. They were helpful and pleasant to a passenger. Their kindness and concern lightened the load of one passing from one tragic situation to another. They gave me courage to face whatever I had to face. I will never forget them.

A brief look around will focus on many people to whom we could extend special Happy New Year wishes. Let's, do it, shall we? We'll all feel better, you'll see!

Bits and Bites Greeting

Greetings and Hallucinations from my hospital bed, I would like to tell you I had the first baby of the New Year. Ha! Ha! Now for the Greeting Happy New Year from The McCausland Hospital. Hope you all had a good time and here's wishing you health and prosperity for 85. Please excuse the shortness of this week's column, but we will be back and up to par next week. Now for this week's Bite. It has come to my attention that the street light right in front of the home is burned out and people are having a hard time guesstimating the turn, I hope it will be changed soon and if it has already been done may I apologize. No matter how silly someone or something may seem, remember the two shady characters who printed a batch of counterfeit money and decided to go out and try to change it. They came to a store and thought the owner looked sort of dumb so they asked him if he could change a $18. dollar bill to which he replied, Yep I sure can do you want two $9.00 or do you want three $6.00.

Two program

A new out-patient program for Thunder Bay-area residents with alcohol or drug problems and a new mental health rehabilitation program have received ministry approval and financial support, Health Minister Keith Norton announced today. Both programs were endorsed as high priorities by the Thunder Bay District Health Council.

St. Joseph's Hospital, Thunder Bay, will open an out-patient program at the Smith Clinic. The new program will provide counselling, therapy, lectures and assessment for the alcoholic or drug abuser and for that person's family. Those 18 and older will be referred to the new program from the Smith Clinic in-patient service and from industry, the courts, Alcoholics Anonymous, social services, churches and other community programs.

The ministry will provide a one-time capital grant of $3,000 and annual funding of $150,980.

Dick O'Donnell, chairman of the Thunder Bay District Health Council, said, "The new Smith Clinic out-patient chemical dependency program will fill an important gap in community services for residents of the Thunder Bay area."

Carole Faulkner, chairman of the council's mental health committee, said, "The new program recognizes the importance of out-patient services in the treatment of alcoholism and drug dependency."

The Thunder Bay branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association will operate the new rehabilitation action program to start, in Thunder Bay, later this year. The ministry will provide a one-time capital grant of $6,500 and annual funding will be $51,750.

"The program will offer community-based services for those with mental health problems who are experiencing difficulty coping with daily living," said Mr. Norton. "An individual will learn to become more self-reliant, to gain or regain self-confidence and self-esteem, and to develop life skills necessary for independent living within the
