

Hospital Day Experience

Krystal, Kristine and Karli Koshowski, [in that order] are getting ready for summer.

Friday, May 10th was Hospital Day in Terrace Bay. Many people, including bus loads of students took this opportunity to visit the many departments of the Hospital that are not often available for viewing.

The emergency equipment was on display, with Pat Skula Ambulance

Supervisor and Training Director on hand for demonstrations and questions. She had an ambulance on hand with CPR mannequins, equipped with modern recording techniques for the teaching of CPR. There were a number of first aid handbooks on display and a list of all requirements needed to become an ambulance driver. The members of the Board of Governors of the McCausland Hospital were providing tours with the help of the nurses and other staff.

The Nurses Association donated the cakes and cookies. Children's art decorate the halls, explaining what they perceive a hospital to be. The children touring enjoyed visiting the physiotherapy department and did not hesitate to test the equipment.

Joyce Reid's Sr. Kindergarten class from the Public School in Schreiber got a first hand look at the operation of the heart monitor, the whirlpool and X-Ray department.

Michael Moore and Irwin Heqedus demonstrate the Hospital's van, equipped with hydraulic lift. The van is leased from Spadoni Bros. in Schreiber and is invaluable to the Hospital.

Mr. Michael Moore, Chairman of the Board of Governors of McCausland Hospital and Marlene Hanley officially open the Hospital's first blood bank.

Emergency vehicle and equipment on display at Hospital day.
