No problems found in PCB tests

TORONTO—Test conducted on milk samples from northwestern Ontario show there is no reason for concern about PCB contamination.

Analysis on samples from 19 truckloads of milk which included milk from all producers in the Kenora, Rainy River and Thunder Bay Districts show PCB levels substantially below the 0.2 parts per million guideline on a fat basis established by Health and Welfare Canada. The tests were conducted in late May and early June.

The results ranged from non-detectable (less than 0.005 parts per million) to 0.069 parts per million. The average was 0.018 parts per million.

Health and Welfare Canada established the 0.2 part per million guideline based on assessment of toxicological tests relating to PCBs which have been carried out on animals.

When establishing the guideline for PCBs in milk, Health and Welfare Canada also considers other potential sources of PCBs in food before determining the level which would not pose a hazard to humans. In addition, safety factors are built into PCB guidelines.

"These results again confirm that Ontario's milk supply is safe and its overall quality ranks with the best anywhere in the world," said Joe Meiser, director of the dairy inspection branch of the Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

All parts of the province will be included in the ongoing survey for PCBs in milk.

A Salute to Youth

Sunny celebrations

The Canada Day Committee deserves a round of applause for the events of last weekend and the weather man a big medal for his part in keeping away the rain.

Starting off a fun filled weekend was a street dance of the Plaza with music by "The Ivan Parise Band".

The response was shown by the large crowds at the different events, the parade featuring the ever popular Fraser Girls Pipe Band of Thunder Bay along with Smokey the Bear and some pretty strange looking Girl Guide Cookies with legs. The theme of this years parade was a salute to Youth and the Parade Marshals were Danny O'Keefe, Kerri Pollard, Heather Saranpaa, Mark Saranpaa and Donna Shynkaryic.

We also hosted the first annual Terrace Bay Go-Kart Prix it was a big attraction among all age groups.

For the children there was the Tim Gosley Puppet Show, swimming activities at the pool and the Family Concert with Frank Soda.

Everyone enjoyed one thing or another from the hospitality gardens to the Ontario Loggers demonstration, the whole weekend had something for us all.

It ended with a giant bonfire and fireworks display, now we all wait until next year to see what they once again have in store for Canada's Birthday.
