Letter to the Editor

Dear Mr. Scott:

I am writing on behalf of all CP pensioners, many of whom reside in my constituency of Cochrane-Superior. I wish to protest CP's planned cancellation of the pensioners' passes, effective November 1, 1985.

It is my understanding that CP intends to replace the rail passes with an extended health care package. Although this package will benefit some pensioners, it will not help those in my riding. The Ontario government already has extensive health care coverage.

Many of the pensioners who will be affected have served long and distinguished terms of employment with CP and live on pensions that are not indexed. They view the pass privilege as part of their retirement package.

I understand that CP is currently at the collective bargaining table. My great concern is that the pensioners are not represented during the discussions on the cancellation of passes. As they are no longer employees of CP, they can not participate in the collective bargaining process.

The method by which CP is revoking these passes is unfair. The pensioners have no means of expressing their view. The passes are simply being taken from them without consultation. I am asking that you carefully reconsider this new policy. CP's pensions are meagre and often the passes are the only means my constituents have of visiting friends and family.

May I also take this opportunity to extend my congratulations to CP on the 100th anniversary of the Last Spike. A reversal of the pass cancellation proposal would be an appropriate way of showing your appreciation to those who helped make CP what it is today.

Yours sincerely,
Keith Penner, M.P.

Hurry up craft ideas

Before you start to sew, decide what gift you would like to make for each person on your Christmas list.

Then check the fabrics and notions you have on hand, before shopping for supplies.

Try to buy everything you need in one trip — patterns, fabric, lace, trims, elastic and hooks.

You can save time by making more than one of an item.

For example, make cosmetic cases or aprons for all the women on your list or create fancy Christmas stockings for all the children.

Put out everything at once and bundle separately for sewing.

Then sew efficiently, says Clothing and Textiles Specialist Margaret Loewen of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food's rural organizations and services branch.

"Sew all you can with one color thread — like the red aprons and the red stockings — and then change to another color. Sew as much as possible before pressing to save trips to the ironing board," Loewen said.

Handiworks can be done during those spare moments — in the car or while you wait for something to boil on the stove.

Use the same efficient methods to sew some holiday additions to your wardrobe too.
