Why not treat yourself to a calculator, too - to tally up your holiday spending - or to count calories after holiday excesses. Here you can spend as little as $4.95 or go over $100 depending on the sophistication of the calculator.

Calculators great gifts

Calculators are always great gifts. Everyone needs one. Choose the simple, inexpensive variety as stock-piling stuffers... or sophisticated models that perform all kinds of mathematical functions... good for the engineering student on your list. One excellent gift suggestion is the combination calculator and checkbook. The calculator has a memory that keeps track of your balance, check by check.

Buy Mom a calculator to use to shop for bargains; the keeper of the family portfolio can use one to keep tabs on the stock market. And kids will find homework fun and easy with a calculator, they might even get it done on time.
