

Schreiber downtown area now has a variety store again

Store now open

Dominic Deleo, perhaps best known in Schreiber as a hairdresser at his Dominic's Uni-Sex Hairstyling Salon, recently branched out into another line. His D & R Variety Store opened on February 14 at the former Scotia Street location of his beauty salon, which he has moved to the back of the building. He is shown here with his wife Rita, at left, and their children Theresa, 5, and Vince 6.

Years ago, the downtown core of Schreiber had a variety store. Then it burned down. Later, another store appeared, but it closed down shortly afterwards. After living through such a series of events, Schreiber resident Dominic Deleo decided to do something about the situation himself.

Duplicate Bridge

Duplicate bridge is played every Friday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the Home Economics Room of the Terrace Bay High School. All interested players are invited to attend.

Results of play from February 21:
First: Colin and Anne Dodd.
Second: David and Alison Steward.
Third: Art Leblanc and Paul Cebrario.

He opened his own variety store in town on February 14.

"I had been thinking about this for quite a while," he explained in an interview shortly after the store opened. "I have always had it in my mind to do something like this."

As a Schreiber native, he had seen a number of such shops come and go from the downtown area, though there hasn't been one there for over five years. Now there is another one, though it boasts something none of the other stores ever had: a hairstyling salon in the back.

Deleo said the salon had been his first line of work until he decided earlier this year to open a variety store. He still wanted to keep the salon, however, so he moved it to the open area at the back of the building.

"Yes, I will continue with Dominic's Uni-sex Hairstyling," he stressed. Both establishments are located at 313 Scotia Street.

He and his wife, Rita, will be running the shop at the front, which is why he named the store D & R Variety. Their son Vince, 6, and daughter Theresa, 5, sometimes lend a hand.

"The store is coming along quite well now, considering I have only been open here for a few days," Deleo said.

He added that the shop has a complete line of grocery staples, including milk and bread, as well as cigarettes, health products, and "lots of candy for the kids." D & R Variety also stocks magazines and comic books.

Deleo pointed out that the shop's hours are from 9 a.m. to 12 midnight every day, seven days a week, making it a true convenience store.
