

Cathy Papineau, a volunteer with the Terrace Bay Kinsmen Club, was on hand during Police Week on May 3 to help out with the Club's Child Find program. Here David Peters, 9, of Terrace Bay is fingerprinted as part of the shield identification program. The Child Find kits, which include a photograph, are kept by the child's parents after it has been prepared.

Business committee formed

merce branch manager Bryon Cassie, Kim Murray of Robinson Stores, Darlene Noble of the Strawberry Patch, Mary Cashmore of SunLife Insurance, and Mike Moore of Moore's, who was on the original Chamber a decade ago.
The first meeting of the new committee is scheduled for May 29, Moore said. "The whole Chamber will probably get together once a month," he added. "It's something the six people on the committee will sit down and decide."

We'll all meet again within a month," Phillips suggested. A specific date was not chosen, but the last week of June was considered as a possible range for a meeting date. "We will get back to everyone after our committee meeting," Moore told the group "We don't want to have a meeting with everybody and not get anything accomplished."

Also attending the session on May 15 was Township Reeve Ollie Chapman.
