

Study still on

A study session on the diversification of job sources and single industry towns will be held at the Terrace Bay High School on June 6 at 7:30 p.m., with the President of the Red Lake Chamber of Commerce scheduled to be in attendance.

Bob Axford is also the Vice President of the Canadian Association of Single Industry Towns and a member of the Ministry of Northern Development and Mines' Advisory Committee on Resource Development Communities, according to the organizers of the Terrace Bay event.

Prof. Robert G. Rose-

hart, the President of Lakehead University in Thunder Bay, was supposed to be the main speaker at the session, but organizers explained that he will be unable to appear, and will visit the town later this year.

Before the study session begins, Axford will attempt to meet in both Schreiber and Terrace Bay with town Councils, service groups, clergy, unions, Chamber of Commerce organizers, and other interested parties.

All area residents are encouraged to attend. For more information on the session, call 824-3386.

Sun and Fun now open

There's a new business in Terrace Bay which will change with the seasons, according to the owner of Sun and Fun Sports, Pat Marcella. The shop, on Simcoe Plaza next to the Credit Union office, opened on May 17.

"I had the idea to do this for at least a year now," he explained just prior to the store's opening. Up until last week he had been doing photograph frames out of his home.

Then he decided to open a sporting goods store in town, because as a fan of some sports himself, he found it difficult to find equipment for sale in Terrace Bay.

"There are just some things you can't get here," he pointed out. "Not anymore, though."

His shop will stock a number of items right on site, ranging from fishing tackle to life jackets to inflatables to sail boards. Then, come the winter, he will switch over to a more seasonal inventory, with ski equipment and hockey gear.

Marcella and his manager Mary Lyttle noted that if they don't have a specific piece on hand in the store, they can order it by catalogue, especially the larger things like inflatable boats, tents, wet suits, and backpacks.

"We hope to be competitive with stores in Thunder Bay," he said. "We would like people to come in and have a look for themselves." Sun and Fun Sports will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday to Friday, and from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Saturdays.

and all open fires are still banned in all parts of Northern Ontario.

At the peak of the forest fire at about 4 p.m., there were at least 75 firefighters at the scene, with five water bombers and eight helicopters helping out from the air, he explained.

At the same time there were also a number of people at the MNR District Office helping out with supplies and other support.

Strassburger admitted that the fire was very much a "close call" at some town homes, particularly on Cavanaugh Crescent.

"It was really nip and tuck there," he said. The blaze crept right up to the backyards of some homes, including Martinez's.

Martinez noted that her house survived unscathed, though some ash did fall on the roof.

"People thought my house burned down," she noted. The flames were so large and so close to her home that at one point it appeared the fire was coming from the building.

Nickleson credited quick action by MNR water fire crews and water bombers, municipal fire crews from Terrace Bay and Schreiber, Kimberly-Clark forest industry employees, the town Police Force and support staff for containing the fire.

Bob Cockerline, fire boss for the Ministry, said he had nothing but praise for all involved.

"We had eight five-man fire crews on the fire at its peak," he said in the MNR release. "Other crews were arriving during the day from other districts."

He estimated the loss of forest area at about 250 hectares.

our lucky stars," her husband Bob said after realizing how close the blaze had come. "We didn't have a clue as to what was going on until we got back here after it was all over." At one point Roberts was sure his house would burn down because the fire was that close to it.

Some area residents said the lack of a secondary access point in and out of the subdivision may have caused some problems in evacuating the area. The only official exit and entrance to the streets in the new subdivision is Terrace Heights Drive.
