(NC) — If you belong to a group that meets regularly — from a bridge club to a church or home and school organization — sooner or later you will be asked to make home baked goodies for a bazaar, tea, bake sale or other get together.

The recipe for these Chewy Nut Coconut Bars, which are quick to make and a treat to eat, is a good one to keep on hand for just such an occasion. It makes four dozen bars and starts with an easy make shortbread mix.

Anyone with a busy schedule is constantly looking for short cuts and time-savers in the kitchen and that's where a baking mix can be a terrific boon. You may even want to bake up several batches and keep them hidden away in the freezer until needed.
